

The Von Rittermann Legacy

Just how far will a mother go to protect her nearest and dearest from danger? For Rhiannon Mayschoss, a beautiful young Anglo-French redhead, the threat is posed by the ruthless Deputy Head of the Paris Gestapo, Colonel Kurt von Rittermann - who threatens to destroy her new-found happiness in wartime Paris. Caught in a web of conspiracy and intrigue, Rhiannon is faced with an agonisingly difficult choice as she desperately seeks to preserve her family from harm. Deborah Read, passionately interested in history, languages, music and travel, and a fluent French and German speaker, has spent four years rigorously researching her first novel, which depicts events from the German point of view - so often neglected in books and films that portray the Second World War.
