

On the Run: The Story of James and Katie Hill

James and Katie Hill had started life like any other married couple. They graduated college, James with a MBA and Katie with a MS in Management with an emphasis in Real Estate, bought a house, had three children, a set of twin boys followed by a girl and a dog. But that picturesque life came to a screeching halt when the government recruited Katie to do some spying in the large Real Estate Management and Investment firm for which she worked. James had even encouraged her, calling it her civic duty. She should have known when something that is requested by the government is endorsed by your FBI agent husband something is going to go wrong. In less than three years Katie Hill had gone from being the top real estate agent of her firm for five years running, selling over a million dollars every year, president of the local PTA, leader of her daughters girl scout troupe, and active mother of three to being dead and on the run with her husband for their lives. On the Run is their story.
