This historic book may have numerous typos and missing text. Purchasers can download a free scanned copy of the original book (without typos) from the publisher. Not indexed. Not illustrated. 1912. Excerpt: ... rooms and kitchen. The arrangement of the locker room is particularly interesting. As the plans are now drawn, a man, will enter the building from the factory and go into the locker room for work clothes. Here he leaves the clothing which he has used during the day. He must then go through the bathroom in order to reach the locker room where his street clothes are kept. Every man, therefore, is provided with two lockers, one for work clothes and one for street clothes. The exact policies which are to be pursued in dealing with workers in order to induce them to use facilities of the bathroom have not been fully determined. The superintendent will try to require the men to take a bath each week and in the more dangerous parts more than one a week. The welfare house, as it is called, is to be open in the evening for those who wish to come. It is to be provided with checkers, dominoes and other small games. When this building has been finished and is in operation, a considerable difference will probably be observed in the conditions. The present washing facilities are very inadequate. 4. In November, 1910, a doctor was established in this plant. He comes every day at eleven o'clock and gives attention to any who need it. He states that the amount of lead poisoning has materially decreased since his coming to the plant. He makes no regular physical examination but goes through the plant at frequent intervals and looks over the men; any that seem to be anemio are sent to his office for examination. Most of the cases are, however, medical cases other than lead poisoning, and accident cases. The doctor reports 24 cases of lead poisoning from November, 1910, to November, 1911. III.

Suggestions for Improvement: There are two or three things that might very well be...
