

Below the Rim of Heaven

Below the rim of heaven, we are all children of God regardless of religious order, denomination, or faith. We strive desperately to come to grips with our mortal existence, restoring order to the infinite complexity of our lives. My poetry takes you to a higher level of understanding where emotion, not intellect, defines the uncertain relationship with our creator. It transcends all international, cultural, social, and eternal boundaries. My message is one of hope where there is despair, love where there is reluctance, and joy to soothe your heart.
