

The Boy from the Monastery: A Novel

On a dark moonless night a cruise ship carrying over two thousand passengers glides through the waters of the Southern Caribbean Ocean. People are dining, drinking, dancing and enjoying their vacations. Speeding towards the ship in a small rubber raft are four men who are dressing in scuba gear. In the raft with them are high energy explosives. A secret council hidden under the desert in Saudi Arabia has given Yusaf Yadallah, the leader of the group this assignment. Yusaf is an experienced killer, a sociopath to whom killing is not a special event. His killing began when he was an orphan in a Monastery in Arizona, and the trail of blood he has left behind him to this point in time is macabre.
