

Dracula: Complete, Original Text (Forgotten Books)

Book Description: The very first appearance of Count Dracula is in Bram Stokers novel DRACULA (1897). But Stoker did not make up the name Dracula. There was a Dracula in the 15th century: Vlad the Impaler. Stoker didnt know much about him... but he came across his name in a book he was researching entitled AN ACCOUNT OF THE PRINCIPALITIES OF WALLACHIA AND MOLDAVIA (1820). This book has a very short section on a Voivode Dracula who fought against the Turks. What attracted Stoker to the name Dracula was a footnote by Wilkinson which stated that Dracula in the Wallachian language means Devil. Not quite accurate, but that is what Stoker saw and copied into his notes. He was originally going to call his vampire Count Wampyr but changed it to Count Dracula. This change is clearly made in Stokers own notes for DRACULA which are located at the Rosenbach Museum in Philadelphia. The real Dracula (about whom we know much more than Stoker ever did) was NOT a Count, nor was he a vampire (or ever associated with vampires). The two Draculas have become greatly confused in many peoples minds.
