

Short Poems - A Long Life

Short Poems A Long Life is a collection of poems written over a lifetime. From the time the author was a teenager in the 1940s until the present, when as an 80 year old man he looks forward to the very interesting events that might occur on December 21, 2012. A lot of the poems were lyrics from some of the songs he wrote down through the years. Some of the poems may give you a laugh, others may make you cringe. Most were written in hope that they would motivate you. In fact if you like to write music for songs, you might try to fit the music to some of these lyrics as the author had done down through the year. Maybe you could come up with a good combination that would make a great song. Of course all the poems are copyrighted but maybe you could get together and publish a hit song. How many ways can you use a poem? The author has used many of the verses in the poems in many different ways. How many ways can you think of? See if your list matches his. Enjoy the book.
