

Jesus and me

I have been blessed with the gift of writing comfort poems. I believe that they are powerful enough to touch peoples lives. These poems are from all of the different events that have happened in my life and how God walked me through them. I feel led to share them, for I am also blessed as a giver and I am just His pen. I know when you read them that you will understand and reflect some resemblance of them in your life. I know that some are sad, some are not, but each one has a comfort in them, a learning and reality. They have helped me grow and boldly stepped out to publish them. I ask God to bless each one of you as you read them, and bring hope and love and all that you need in your life. These poems are short, but so is life. We need to live it fully not just for ourselves but to help each other any and every way that we can. I hope that I can always do this.
