

Mujahidin

The estranged son of an Israeli sabra and American stepfather, Aaron Harel, spends his formative years living throughout the Middle East and Afghanistan where he meets Khalis, a charismatic Pathan tribal leader and mujahidin (warrior). Aaron eagerly absorbs the teachings of Khalis and incorporates the Pathan concepts of justice, honor, revenge, and the warrior ethic into his young, impressionable life. As an adult, Aaron becomes the consummate soldier and Mossad operative. But circumstances and personal tragedy intervene that force Aaron to return to the wild land of his youth in the midst of a violent civil war. To survive, Aaron is forced to recall the dusty lessons of his youth and confront the shadows from his distant past.
