

The Other Side of Landscape: An Anthology of Contemporary Nordic Poetry

The whole object of travel is not to set foot on a foreign land, wrote G.K. Chesterton, it is at last to set foot on ones own country as a foreign land. Such is the effect, too, of reading The Other Side of Landscape. Working simultaneously under the influence of foreign poetries and thousand-year-old native traditions, this inspired collection explores the poets Electrical Ias editors Stochholm and Sumarihat gives the reader a sense of wonder for the familiar, an electrical eye. The Other Side of Landscape is a collection of seventeen Nordic poets as influenced by modern and post-modern techniques as by pan-Scandinavian mythology. It represents the largest and most comprehensive collection of modern Nordic poets ever for an American audience.
