

What Words Can Paint the Stars: Selected Poems

Poems by Frederick Kane 1896-1955. This collection of poems gives us insight into an earlier era, through the eyes of a perceptive and articulate man. Frederick Kane, or Padraig OCahan as he signs some of his poems, was born in Ireland and spent most of his adult life in England. He lived through the Easter Rising, and two World Wars. His grasp of contemporary circumstances and the universal human condition is as nuanced as his vocabulary and poetic control. The range of form and subjects, from clever amusing epitaphs to longer reflections on individuals and current events, reveals the sensitivity and intellect that created them.
