

The Giants from Outer Space

Grim terror lurked in the void many light years from Earth. But Pinkham and his men were unaware of it -- until suddenly they discovered -- the giants from outer space. The first of the marooned survivors turned up on an asteroid. She was a gorgeous woman, and for all that her spacesuit had kept her in stasis for twenty-eight years, she hardly aged a day. The Martian was different. He had been there four thousand years. . . . At least! Maybe longer. The ancient Martians might have made it this far away, but their spacesuits were nothing like those of Terra. So crew of the Elephants Child was face to face with a hopeless absurdity -- an alien could not be there. But at least he was good company! -- You could not say that for the giants.
