

Destruction: Book Three of the Destruction Series

In the final book of his Destruction trilogy, author Phil Cantrill brings the epic adventure of good versus evil in the ancient world to an action-packed close. Prince Erechtheus-Erech to his intimates-returns to Poseidia with his friends on a desperate mission to destroy the very source of the empire's power, the mighty crystal that allows his enemies to control nature itself. Erech's lifelong nemesis, the powerful, paranoid, and perverse Al-Jinn, high priest of the Temple of Bel, will stop at nothing to destroy his former slave and prisoner. Erech and his companions must find the strength needed to survive their confrontation with the mad priest. At stake is the fate of the empire-and the world. As fire and earthquakes rage around them, a heroic battle for the mighty firestones culminates. Driven by courage and a sense of justice, Erech and his warriors are all that stand between the danger of the empire and peace for his world. Can this small, brave band of heroes fight evil and corruption of this magnitude successfully? And can they keep Al-Jinn and his allies from power elsewhere?
