

Faceless (Faceless Trilogy)

NightCard, a private genetic engineering agency, creates experiments with astounding abilities. Experiment 1343, or Faceless, is one of them. He was genetically designed with the ability to rip his face off and morph it into anyone he can imagine. His hyper-reflexes and martial arts training make him the perfect spy. He escapes to Paris in search of the woman he met and fell in love with as a child. NightCard sends their Four Kings to bring him back. One of which is closer than he thinks. The girl Faceless met as a child was treated for a psychotic break. Her story about a child that tore his face had her parents believing she was crazy. She grew to be a beautiful artist whose collection of art features a faceless man dancing with a woman. Spade of the Four Kings is a fighter, as well as a lover with a habit of spending too much time with too many women. He has long searched for something to quench his hunger. He befriends a man in desperate need of Spades help getting the girl of his dreams. Spade doesn't realize it's the very man he is supposed to be hunting. Cover art by the incredible J. Chapman
