

The Golden Butterfly by Walter Besant and James Rice

The Golden Butterfly, which gives a name to this novel, was seen by an English traveller, two years ago, preserved as a curiosity in a mining city near Sacramento, where it probably still remains. This curious freak of Nature is not therefore an invention of our own. To the same traveller Mr. Edgar Besant we are indebted for the description on which is based our account of Empire City. The striking of oil in Canada in the manner described by Gilead P. Beck was accomplished with the waste of millions of gallons of the oil, for want of casks and buckets to receive it, and with the result of a promise of almost boundless wealth by a man named Shaw, some ten years ago. Shaw speculated, we believe; lost his money, and died in poverty. Names of great living poets and writers have been used in this book in connection with a supposed literary banquet. A critic has expressed surprise that we have allowed Gilead Beck's failure to appreciate Browning to stand as if it were our own. Is a writer of fiction to stop the action of his story in order to explain that it is his characters opinion and not his own, that he states? And it surely is not asking too much to demand of a critic that he should consider first of all the consistency of a characters actions or speeches. Gilead Beck, a man of no education and little reading, but of considerable shrewdness, finds Browning unintelligible and harsh. What other verdict could be expected if the whole of Empire City in its palmyest days had been canvassed? Moreover, we have never, even from that great writers most ardent admirers, heard an opinion that he is either easy to read, or musical. The compliments which Mr. Beck paid to the guests who honoured his banquet are of course worded just as he delivered them. Gilead Beck's experiences as an editor are taken with a little dressing from the actual experiences of a living Canadian journalist. From their

Virginian home Jack Dunquerque and Phillis his wife send greetings to those who have already followed their fortunes. She only wishes us to add that Mr. Abraham Dyson was right, and that the Coping Stone of every womans education is Love. Most people know this, she says, from reading: but she never did read; and the real happiness is to find it out for yourself. W. B. / J. R. March, 1877. CONTENTS Joseph and His Brethren. Phillis is my only joy. Phillis Education. To taste the freshness of the morning air. Te duce C?sar. I do not know Bid me discourse, I will enchant thine ear. They say if money goes before, all ways do lie open. By my modesty, The jewel in my dower, I have in these rough words shaped out a man Higher she climbed, and far below her stretchd Harken what the Inner spirit sings, She never yet was foolish that was fair. You bear a gentle mind, and heavenly blessings But if ye saw that which no eyes can see, Souvent femme varie, Bien foi qui sy fie. Now you set your foot on shore Doubtfully it stood, We do not know Go seek your fortune farther than at home. Animum pictura pascit inani. Ambition should be made of sterner stuff. Call me not fool till Heaven hath sent me fortune. I had rather hear a brazen candlestick turnd, Why, she is cold to all the world. A right royal banquet. Greater humanity. Non possidentem multa vocaveris Recte beatum. It is my lady! Oh, it is my love Pictoribus atque Poetis This fellows of exceeding honesty, Nulla fere causa est in qua non femina litem Moverit. An excellent play. In such a cause who would not give? What heart Love in her eyes lay hiding, What is it that has been done? Come now, the Master Builder cried, Tis well to be off with the old love, What is it you see? How green are you and fresh in this old world! La langue des femmes est leur epee, et elles ne la laissent pas rouiller. Then a babbled of green fields. This comes of airy visions and the whispers So, on the ruins he himself had made. Farewell to all my greatness. Whisper Love, ye breezes; sigh
