

We Truck Louisville: Life Always Needs to be Protected

The truckers were waging a war against the drug takeover of Louisville, Kentucky with battle cries as they drove through the city. Drivers changed their routes so they could join the yells. They refused to accept loads from the Louisville businesses. Bonnie had been a trucker that was ruthlessly robbed by dope dealers. She had only married Carl Silas Blake, MD because of money. Fighting the drug dealers, any way that she could, without telling her husband, was all she that could do to avenge the Louisville exiles that had been torn from their land.
